

LINER · A LESWWW PROJECT

ONE TRACK ON YOUR WALL, LIKE A WORK IN A MUSEUM.

An e-ink frame that hangs a single track from 320kbps.club: its cover and liner notes on a museum label, over a map of where the artist comes from.

ONE AT A TIME

ONE TRACK, THEN NOTHING ELSE.

A new track every morning and evening. No feed to scroll, no autoplay: something to look at for a whole day, and to go and listen to.

HAND-PICKED

PICKED BY A PERSON, NEVER AN ALGORITHM.

Every track comes from 320kbps.club, where each one is chosen by hand. Follow the whole site, the track of the day, a curator or a playlist.

REAL PLACES

WHERE THE ARTIST COMES FROM.

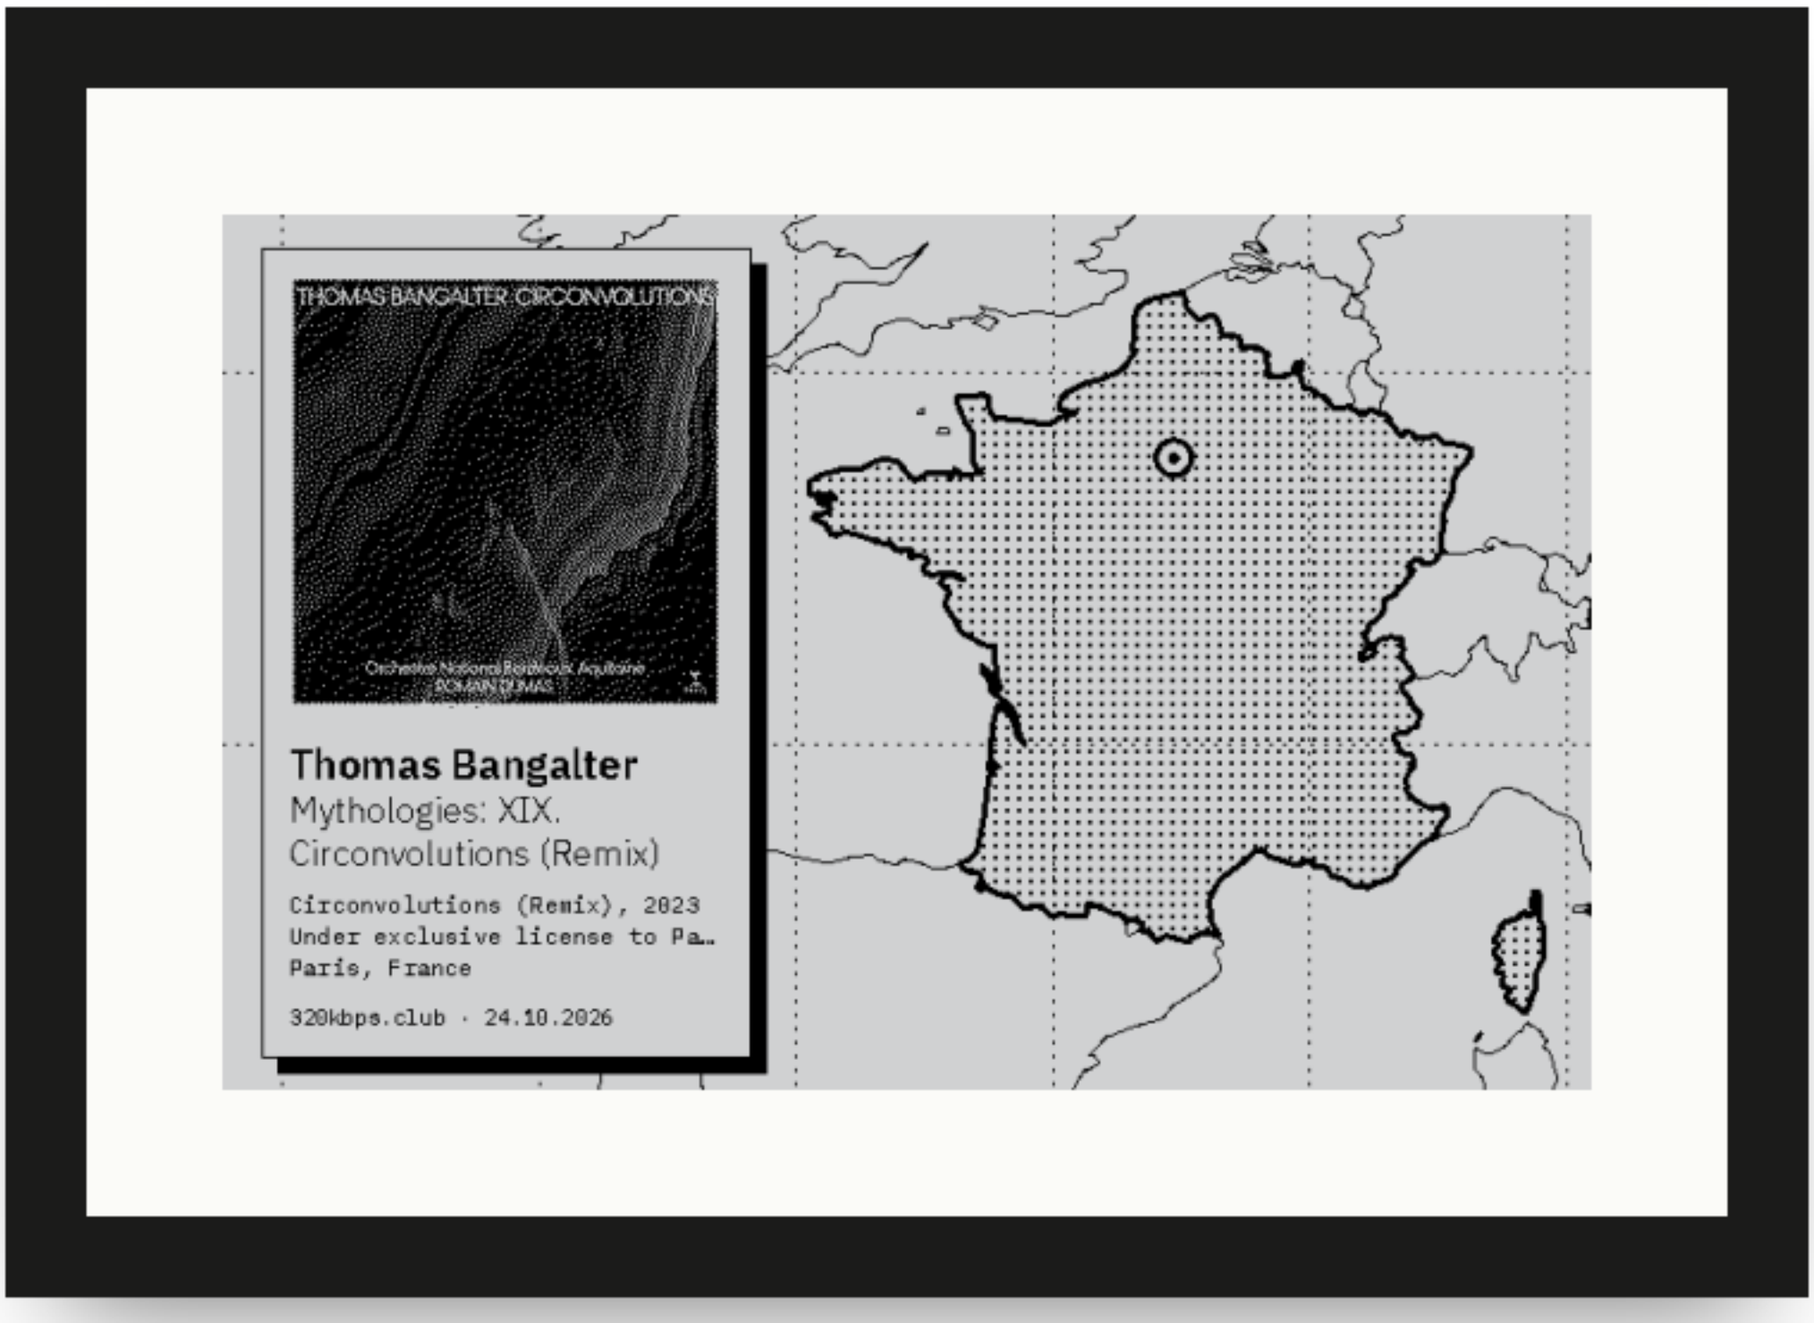

Where they were born or formed, not where they live now: Magugu is from Nigeria, even if based in the UK. No known origin, no picture.

MADE FOR THE INK

DRAWN FOR SIX INKS.

Black, white, yellow, red, blue, green. Text without smoothing, a map that snaps to the pixel; only the cover is dithered.

YOURS TO KEEP

EVERY PICTURE, FREE TO KEEP.

Each track the frame hangs also becomes a 4K wallpaper and a black and white picture, free to download from the gallery.

OPEN SOURCE

SMALL, OPEN, YOURS TO BUILD.

A Raspberry Pi Zero, a Spectra 6 panel, any frame with a mat.
About €100 of parts, an afternoon, the MIT License.

BUILD YOURS → GITHUB.COM/KXRZ/LESWWW-LINER